Drugs, the CIA, and Black America

By Taliq Adams & Kofi Opantiri
Black Voice News

The San Jose [California] Mercury News has confirmed what many have suspected for a long time: the deluge of drugs in African-America communities is due in no small measure to government involvement, the CIA in particular. In a three-part series published August 18 - 20, 1996, Gary Webb describes how African-American neighborhoods were targeted for the sale of illegal quantities of crack cocaine in order to raise money for Contra activities in Nicaragua.

That there should be an outcry from the black community is to be expected---and is fully warranted. Regrettably, for the soul of this nation, those in our community harboring great expectations that non-black Americans will join us in our outrage are due for a great disappointment instead. There will be no hue and cry from them about this despicable matter.

Evidence of this reality is the fact that the major media have yet to cover this story. It doesn't take a rocket scientist to realize that this story carries far greater significance for the lives of all Americans than does the O. J. Simpson story. Which story have you read or heard about in the past seven days?

As we ourselves rail against this evil conspiracy against us---and rail we must---we are simultaneously compelled to take stock of our condition as a people. No one is holding a gun to our heads, individually or collectively, to make us sell and use crack cocaine or any other drug for that matter.

In defense of ourselves, many of us will argue that our drug involvement has much to do with the hopelessness spawned by the hellish sojourn of African people in America. An informed understanding of our history makes it impossible to deny the validity and accuracy of this perspective.

However, it is also true that our presence in America has always been clouded by the willingness of others to profit from us in one fashion or another even though their gain resulted in our misery and death. This horrendous state of affairs has existed the entire duration of our stay in America.

With the Mercury News expose, we have yet another example of the undeclared war against its African citizens being waged by the American government. Such knowledge should come as no surprise. After all, it is a well documented fact that at no period in America's history has there ever been a time when it was not official government policy at some level to prevent or deny the rights of equal citizenship to Black people living in this country. Published exposes on the drug dealing activity of the CIA dating back to 1976 reveal that whatever particular drug the CIA was involved with was the drug that flooded Black communities around the country. From the decision revealed in the King Alfred Plan to place Black soldiers in high risk combat areas in hopes of killing them off, to the decision to develop the designer disease AIDS, which was revealed in the Strecker Memorandum, we see a continuous effort to kill us off by any means necessary on the part of White America.

In short, the Mercury News bombshell is simply a revelation of the latest episode in America's war against us: same story, new chapter. If we fail to grasp the significance of this point, we will continue to lose the war.

"Taking Charge: Empowerment, Leadership & Motivation"

Los Angeles Black Deaf Advocates, Inc.: Conference attendees met in Los Angeles recently for the 14th Annual National Black Deaf Advocates Conference.

Black Deaf Advocates Meet in Los Angeles

By Megan Carter
Black Voice News

The National Black Deaf Advocates met recently in Los Angeles with a special mission — Taking Charge: Empowerment, Leadership, and Motivation. The 14th annual conference, hosted by the Los Angeles Black Deaf Advocates, was held at the Doubletree Hotel with an unexpected number of registrants.

"We didn't expect such a large turn-out, the conference was extremely successful with over 500 registrants," said Gail Riley, an Inland Empire resident and vice-president of the Los Angeles Black Deaf Advocates, Inc.

"We had many attractions for

registrants including Disneyland, Universal Studios Tours, and tours of Los Angeles. We even had registrants from as far away as England and Germany," she continued.

Conference attendees also participated in a variety of workshops, panels with Black deaf professional speakers, special activities, and a Black Deaf America Pageant.

"The annual conference for NBDA is very precious for all Black deaf people to gather together for updates on education, social events, and support for the deaf," Riley concluded.

According to Tijuana Holston, conference committee member, the conference was a complete success. Holston, who performed as Rosa Parks in an African heritage skit, attended with her children. "I think it is important for young people to be exposed to successful Black deaf professionals. We met many interesting people from all over the world who have not limited their ability to achieve because of a slight disability," said Holston.

One of these women, Ayna Geronimick of Germany, discussed life for deaf residents in her small hometown. "It is hard for deaf and hard of hearing persons in my small town to succeed. Now a few have succeeded as teachers and in the medical field, but none are currently enrolled in college," she explained.

Her goal is to change that trend. "I want to become a teacher for deaf children and hope to study in the United States," Geronimick continued.

The National Black Deaf Advocates is the first and largest consumer organization of deaf and hard of hearing people of color established in the United States. NBDA was founded in 1982 to promote the well-being and culture of deaf and hard of hearing African-Americans. Through its mission NBDA aims to strengthen the educational, cultural, social and economic advancement of deaf and hard of hearing African-Americans.

Scrapping Welfare Could Prove Expensive

By Farhan Haq
Black Voice News

NEW YORK -- Ending welfare is not merely cruel, warn defenders of the U.S. federal welfare system, which President Bill Clinton has promised to scrap. It is potentially costly as well, they say.

Both Democrats supporting Clinton and the Republicans who control both houses of Congress contend that the welfare system wastes money and have reached agreement to cut some $55 billion in federally guaranteed programs.

Most notably, Clinton promised last week to sign a bill that ends Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC), a 61-year-old federal cash entitlement to poor families that was a cornerstone of President Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal.

Under the new system that Congress approved, the 50 states will be allowed to devise their own welfare programs. They may require welfare recipients to work after two years of receiving benefits, and will drop most people from welfare rolls after five years -- ending welfare "as a way of life," as Clinton has put it.

But will the scrapping of welfare save money? Economist Glenn Loury, a former fellow at the conservative American Enterprise Institute, argues it will not.

Instead, he contends, the United States may suffer from "the Samaritan syndrome": that is, privately funded groups may spend more to prop up charities.

At the center of Loury's argument is the idea that no country as wealthy as the United States will turn away from the needs of the poorest. Richer members of the public would rather contribute more to charity and to groups aiding the most vulnerable populations, which Loury argues will ultimately be more expensive than the current federal welfare system.

"It's going to cost us more," agrees Philip Coltoff, executive director of the Children's Aid Society, of the scrapping of federal welfare. "This country is not ready to allow children to be abjectly hungry and to starve."

Other experts warn of another factor that could boost the cost of cutting welfare: the threat of social explosion.

"This measure is likely to fuel levels of discontent," particularly among Black and Latino groups who form a substantial plurality of welfare recipients, argues professor Ron Walters of Howard University. Those groups, he says, have been singled out by politicians for all the failings of the welfare system.

"Blacks are beginning to get the message," Walters argues. "People have been getting vilified for decades."

At worst, Walters says, the targeting of blacks and Latinos for such large budgetary cuts could lead to riots, much as perceptions of police unfairness sparked rioting in Los Angeles and other cities in 1992, following the acquittal of four white police officers for the beating of motorist Rodney King.

But even without the worst-case scenario, experts argue, the sweeping nature of the welfare cuts could provoke a rise in crime and other social ills.

Ten percent of all U.S. families will lose some income as a result of the cuts, says Deborah Weinstein, director of the family income division of the Children's Defense Fund. She argues that no-one has yet spelled out how those lost funds will be replaced.

Former New York Governor Mario Cuomo says that ending welfare without sufficient job training to replace it will cause "more of all the things that abject poverty brings." Among them, he says, are increases in homelessness, crime and domestic violence.

A rise in criminal activity certainly should be expected, Walters says. "There will be more people in the underground economy," he contends, since few of those cut from the welfare rolls can be expected to find jobs easily. "That alone means that crime will go up."

Other provisions in the welfare bill may be more directly tied to social problems. Coltoff notes that one part of the bill requires mothers seeking benefits to identify the fathers of their children, a requirement!

He notes, that may force fathers into a family responsibility they do not want to honor. "We're liable to run into a lot of wife abuse and child abuse" from the requirement, he predicts.

Some activists who have tried in vain to urge Clinton to veto the welfare bill have made even more dire predictions.

"What are welfare mothers who cannot find work supposed to do for family income when time limits expire?" asks Hugh Price, president of the National Urban League "Do we want desperate mothers to turn to panhandling, or drug dealing, prostitution and other forms of criminal activity? Are these the family values' Washington has in mind?"

Clinton, however, believes the current welfare bill, while flawed, offers stronger incentives to get recipients to work than two previous versions which he vetoed.

Fontana Union Costs Tax Payers

The Fontana Unified School District (Fontana, CA) is paying the President of the Teachers' Union her salary ($50,000 + benefits) to sit in the union hall talking to teachers. The teacher's union dues are $650 per year. There are 1300 teachers in the Fontana school district. 1300 X $650 = $845,000. If the union is taking a teacher out of the classroom - let the union pay her salary.

What is the school board thinking? Why are they paying a union president not to teach when teachers are sorely needed in the classroom teaching our children?

I want to know if other district school boards are doing the same thing. These are public funds (tax money) and we vote these people into office.

The product of public education in California is at an all time low. The unions are putting big money into electing school board members and other elected officials. It's time to take a look at what teacher's union are costing the tax payers.

Riverside Shelter Needs Help

It is with great pleasure that we at Riverside Men's Shelter extend to you the opportunity to help us celebrate our 5th anniversary.

Our doors opened May 6, 1991. Since then, many men have walked through them. They came with little to hope of ever getting their lives back on track. We gave these men a clean bed, food, a safe place to live, and above all a chance to become self reliant again. These same men have returned to the community: as drafters, bookkeepers, accountants, office workers, welders, truck drivers, maintenance, etc. We can achieve these victories only through the loyal support of concerned citizens like yourself.

Today, we are asking you to help us renew our efforts by joining our "Fifth Anniversary Celebration." Your participation in this celebration will directly aid the men to give them a "Hand Up and Not A Hand Out."

As part of a nonprofit organization called Shelter For The Homeless which operates shelters for families and individuals in Southern California, we invite you to become part of our team as we go forward to help the homeless.

There are real solutions to homelessness through the united efforts of the entire community. As a nonprofit entity, there is much we can do to help, but our efforts require the backing of the private sector if we are to be successful.

Can we count on you to become a partner with Riverside Men's Shelter and Shelter For The Homeless? Your involvement will make a better community for us all.

Thank you for your concern, and your generous donations. For further information contact (909) 274-0164.

Taking Care of All of Us

Hugh B. Price

By Hugh B. Price, President
National Urban League
Black Voice News

Four years ago when the Walt Disney Company publicly pledged to hire 200 young people from poverty-stricken South Central Los Angeles to work at Disneyland, more than 600 youths fumed up for interviews--even though the jobs involved a two-hour commute between home and work.

"They were wonderful kids, outstanding kids," a delighted Disney Company executive later told a reporter from the New York Times. "We didn't know they were there."

I thought of Disney's experience last Monday night when I watched Christopher Reeve, his body confined to a wheelchair, but his spirit soaring, describe his vision of what America should be to a rapt audience at the Democratic National Convention.

Referring to Franklin Roosevelt's guiding the country through the Great Depression, Reeve said that "the most important principle FDR taught us" was that "America is stronger when all of us take care of all of us."

One couldn't ask for more appropriate words to contemplate and be inspired by as we celebrate Labor Day and, this year, look forward to the Presidential Election campaign.

This weekend, many of us can celebrate Labor Day because we have jobs. However much we grouse about work, we can be thankful that we have a job--and the steady income brings, and the self-esteem and sense of participation in the larger society it brings.

Labor Day underscores that both for the society and the individual work is simultaneously a necessity, a privilege, and, yes, a right. For the great mass of people, to be unemployed, to be without work is to be separated, cut adrift from the rest of civil society.

William Julius Wilson, the noted sociologist, brought that truism to life in poignant and disturbing detail two weeks ago in an article in The New York Times Magazine simply titled, "When Work Disappears."

The article, from Professor Wilson's forthcoming book, explored the impact within and outside inner-city Black neighborhoods of the disappearance during the past three decades of enough jobs to employ the majority of those neighborhoods' residents.

To greatly simplify an article, and a book that all of us should read, the impact of the loss of jobs has been the impoverishment of most of these neighborhoods' residents; the destruction of the neighborhoods' businesses and severe decline of their housing stock; the flight of many of the neighborhoods' employed residents; and a literal hollowing out of what had once been a stable community.

In the vacuum, criminal activity, particularly the scourge of drug-trafficking, takes root. The result of this economic deprivation has been an intensifying social isolation that further divorces those trapped in poverty from the mores of the rest of the society.

Professor Wilson also makes clear, however, that isolation does not prevent the devastating effects of the great depression in inner-city America from showing up outside them.

Professor Wilson, who is also a trustee of the Urban League, states plainly that the difficulties of these neighborhoods and their residents stem not from moral deficiencies, or lack of individual initiative, but from the lack of a basic component and privilege of being an American: having a job. As he puts it: "It's a myth that people who don't work don't want to

And he also states plainly that "Solutions will have to be found--and those solutions are at hand."

A great part of what he suggests dovetails with what I (and others within an outside the Urban League movement) have advocated in several columns in recent months: an urban jobs program repairing and rebuilding cities' crumbling infrastructure that would provide poor inner-city residents with both employment and meaningful job-training in order to bring them into the nation's economic loop.

We are not proposing a "giveaway" program. We are proposing a program in which poor inner-city residents would get meaningful work and training at decent wages and all of America would get a refurbished urban environment--and a newly-developed pool of workers.

Yes, such a program would cost money. We contend that America cannot afford the cost of not mounting such an effort.

What it takes, at the basic level, is understanding that America's economic survival rests on a society in which all levels of the society are economically healthy. What it also takes is understanding the more exalted meaning behind Christopher Reeve's words: America is stronger when all of us take care of all of us.

Increase Your Revenue and Growth

Linda L. Smith

By Linda L. Smith, RN, BSN, PHN
Black Voice News

There are millions of dollars in the hands of Afro-Americans and those dollars are not being utilized fully to support Black owned businesses, including our Black publications and advertisement media.

Help us to help you. In order for the members of the community to know of your whereabouts we need to know where you are. One of the best means of marketing your business is through the print media. There are approximately three hundred and fifty (350) Black owned businesses in the Inland Empire Area and only a handful advertise consistency in the papers. It must be understood that in order to bring the patrons in they must first know that you exist!

Many businesses were represented at the Unity Gathering in an effort to market their products and services to the many spectators. Businesses that are listed on the roster from the Gathering have been contacted by various members of the Coalition for their continued support and input. Results have been less than promising.

As a business owner, I have learned the great value of advertising. Increased advertising means increase sales, which mean positive cash flow and growth for many companies. Every business must advertise, seek new clients, increase their revenue and profitability margin and create a job market to hire from the community.

The Unity Coalition has put forth effort to inform the members of the community of the numerous Black owned businesses with the aide of Black owned publications as the Precinct Reporter, The American Newspaper, The Black Voice, The Westside Story, The Inland Valley News and The Little Black Book. Members of the Coalition have also tried to spread the information through verbal and printed communications.

I suggest that each business owner examine his/her market plan. If one does not exist, contact a marketing firm for assistance. I would highly recommend Carl Dameron of Dameron Communications. Whatever your marketing budget is, that is what you start with. Be willing to advertise and set no limit on your boundaries for growth.

Point Of View: Drugs, The CIA, & Black America

As necessary as it is for American-Africans to publicize the government's evil imposition of crack on our communities, and as important as it is for us to demand that it be held accountable for this crime against humanity, there is, nevertheless, a far more important issue for us to grapple with as a people. That issue is the fact that there will be yet other atrocities foisted upon us in the decades and generations to come if our development as a people remains at its present stagnant levels.

If our people are vulnerable to the evils of drug dealing and usage because of an insufficiency of economic opportunity, then it is we as a community who must create such opportunity for one another so as to strengthen our resistance to these and a host of other evils. It falls upon our shoulders to make Black on Black ranking and Black on Black business a fundamental and pervasive reality in Black America.

If our people are vulnerable to the scourge of drugs because we lack education, then it is we who must create the institutions that will enable us to become a properly and effectively educated people rather than a people trained to maintain another people's systems and culture.

The bone-chilling reality of our condition is that we are a disempowered, disorganized, and disunited people. That, in a nutshell, is why we've been victimized in the past. For that reason, more than any other, we were targeted for a deluge of cheap crack cocaine by the CIA and others to finance the Contras' war against the progressive Sandinista government in Nicaragua. It is also the reason why we will continue to suffer such treatment in the future.

The only way out of this dilemma is to unite with one another and transform ourselves into a self-defining and self-determining people. No one else will end our misery because no one else can end our misery. We alone have that ability.

First African American Woman To Win Olympic Medal Dies

By Paul A. Hurst Sr.
BVN Staff Writer

San Diego - Audrey "Mickey" Patterson-Tyler, the progenitor of the modern African American Female Olympian died Friday August 23, 1996 at Paradise Valley Hospital of heart failure and stroke. She was only 69 years old. The year was 1948 and Mickey was a member of the United States Olympic Team. The games were held in London England where Mickey was the first American Woman to run in the new 220 yard dash. In that event she won the bronze medal making her the first African American Woman to win an Olympic medal.

Yes, she was the progenitor of a line of African American Female Olympian athletes that followed in her footsteps. After her, other great females athletes went on to capture the gold, but it was Mickey who set the mold and paved the way for them all. Like Jesse Owens, Mickey had to overcome the difficulties and obstacles of 1948 America. She proved to be a good Ambassador for future Olympic stars because she never forgot the struggles of the past. Because of her efforts all African American Olympic competitors can dare to run faster, jump higher, vault, punch and slam dunk with confidence that their best efforts will be rewarded.

In her last year on this earth the Olympic games were held in America, her home. Not one mention of her was made at the games. A living legend and hero of our times. Pastor Margo Brown said it well "heroes often dedicated their lives for others with little in return except gratification" that was Mickey. Pastor Brown should know, she is known around the world as the 'Ambassador of Peace' and has dedicated her life to that end. Brown a long time friend of Mickey has taken on another mission. She will help establish the Mickey Patterson-Tyler Foundation. Additionally, she has pledged to petition President Bill Clinton to see if a national day of recognition could be set aside in her honor.

Mickey was married 34 years to Ronald Tyler. They had four children, Cynthia, Andrea, Gerald and Herbert. She left eight grandchildren and one great grandchild. Audrey "Mickey" Patterson-Tyler will be missed.

Violence: The Leading Health Risk to Children

San Bernardino Department of Public Health

October has been designated as Child Health Month by the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors. The County Department of Public Health, Child Health and Disability Prevention Program, urges parents to work diligently to reverse the epidemic of violence that is affecting their children and teens.

Parents can do a lot to reduce the violence around us by trying to raise children in safe and loving homes. Here are a few tips on how to raise children to resist violence: Give your children consistent love and attention; make sure your children are supervised; show your children appropriate behaviors by the way you act; don't hit your children; be consistent about rules and discipline; make sure your children do not have access to guns; and try to keep your children from watching violence in the home, community or on television.

Parents and caregivers can take charge of television viewing. For example, limit time spent watching television or video games to one or two hours per day. Monitor what your child sees. Tell your child that gun violence on TV and in the movies is not real. Explain that in real life children are hurt and killed by guns. Video record their favorite non-violent TV shows to watch after homework, sports or family activities. Plan time with your children to talk, read or play games.

Parents, remind yourselves that your children need your time and attention or they will go to the wrong people and place for the attention of others.

Here are some ways to help keep your child's TV viewing in balance:

Set limits on the amount of TV your child watches. Be firm. Limit children's TV viewing to an hour or two daily. Before children watch television, they should do their homework and chores, but TV should not be used as a reward. Helping children find things to do instead of watching TV, such as sports, hobbies, or family activities, can make setting limits easier.

Help your child plan TV viewing in advance. Choose programs from TV listings at the beginning of each week. Keep copies of the family viewing schedule where everyone can see them (by the TV, in her bedroom, or on the refrigerator) as reminders.

Know what television shows your child watches. Watch TV with your child. When programs show sex, alcohol or drug abuse, or violence, talk about what you see. Help your child understand what he is watching. This is a good time to reinforce your own family values.

Do not permit TV watching during dinner. Dinner is often the only time that families are able to be together during the day. If the TV set is on at the same time, it will get in the way of talking to each other.

Do not allow your child to have a TV set in his bedroom. Not only will he tend to watch more TV, but he will probably stay in his room away from other family members. When a child watches TV in his own bedroom, it is harder for parents to guide his program choices. He may get less sleep, causing him to be tired at school the next day.

Keep books, magazines and board games in the TV room. Visit the library often with your children. Help them select books to read instead of always watching TV.

Set an example of behavior you wish to instill. If you want your child to read more, that is what you should do. If you would like him to go outdoors for physical activity, make it a part of an enjoyable family exercise program.

Ask local television stations to schedule educational programs for children. Tell station managers not only what you do not like, but what you enjoy. Good programs often don't get the best ratings, but letters of praise can help keep them on the air. Groups like Action for Children's Television (20 University Road, Cambridge, MA 02138) are working hard to improve TV programming for children.

If TV causes arguments or fights, simply unplug it for a while. Children can be creative when TV is not taking up all their time and attention.

SCDAA Sets Theme For Sickle Cell Month

(LOS ANGELES) - "Continuity of Care: The Role of Community Based Organizations" is the theme selected by the Sickle Cell Disease Association of America, Inc. (SCDAA) to focus on during September's annual observance of National Sickle Cell Awareness Month. That theme will also be explored during the Association's 24th Annual Convention, October 2-5 at the Excelsior Hotel in Little Rock, Arkansas. The convention will feature a variety of educational offerings including a keynote luncheon address by former U.S. Surgeon General, Dr. Joycelyn Elders.

The announcement was made by Lynda K. Anderson, Executive Director of SCDAA, the nation's only voluntary health organization working full time to resolve issues related to sickle cell disease, an inherited red-blood cell disorder.

Sickle Cell has New National Poster Child - 7-year-old Kaja DeVaughn of Alta Loma, CA.

"We are looking forward to culminating National Sickle Cell Awareness Month with our annual convention," Anderson said. "This forum for the exchange of the latest information and technologies employed to combat sickle cell conditions is a key service offered by the association to the sickle cell disease community and those involved in shaping public health care policy," she added.

Other highlights of the SCDAA convention include medical, organizational and cultural exhibits, a gala awards banquet and the introduction of the association 1996-1997 National Poster Child, seven year old Kaja DeVaughn, a first grade student at St. Mark's Episcopal School in Alta Loma, California. Kaja was submitted as a contestant for the national honor by Sickle Cell Organization of the Inland Counties in Riverside, California. She will replace Tiffany Danille Jarmon of Houston Texas and the Sickle Cell Association of the Texas Gulf Coast.

Official carrier for SCDAA's 24th annual conference is American Airlines. For pre-registration and other information, call (310) 216-6363 or (800) 421-8453.

Ernest Levister, M.D.

DEAR DR. LEVISTER: Recently, I have been worn down or tired all the time. What could be some of the reasons? J.F.

Dear J.F.: Recent onset of fatigue or a run down feeling can have a variety of reasons.

Any disease whatsoever can cause fatigue or a washed out feeling. If this persists you should undergo a thorough medical evaluation.

Emotions can cause psychogenic fatigue. Recent upheavals with children, loved ones or parents can be the reason.

That Washed Out Feeling

Poor nutrition can be a cause of fatigue. Once identified dietary counseling is of value.

Recent viral infections to include the flu, infectious mononucleosis etc. can result in fatigue. This usually abates with plenty of rest and patience.

Diuretics or water pills used for the treatment of high blood pressure can cause the problem. It is due to a loss of potassium and magnesium which your physician can replace. There's also the option of using other medications.

Cancer of the G.I. (gastrointestinal) tract, Lungs or for that matter anywhere is a cause of fatigue or tired feelings. The treatment may be medical or surgical.

Various medications can cause or contribute to fatigue. You should review your prescriptions and of course over the counter drugs with your personal physician.

It may be difficult to distinguish between the simple tired washed out feeling and muscle fatigue. There are several diseases which selectively strike the muscle leaving them weak. Try to recall what makes you fatigued and/or weak so that you can discuss it with your physician.

If you are tired and fatigued and at the same time gaining weight, constipated and have dry skin you may not be getting enough thyroid hormone. Fatigue and or that tired washed out feeling occurs in all of us. If it persists talk it over with your personal physician.

Dr. Levister welcomes reader mail concerning their body but regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters. Your letter will be incorporated into the column as space permits. You may direct your letters to Dr. Levister in care of Voice News, P.O. Box 1581, Riverside, CA 92502

Family Talks

Joseph Bailey, II M.D.

Suppose you are faced with a nice but very tough life-shaping decision. Friends you consult say "follow your heart!" Is this good advice? In answering this question, how you figure out a final decision will involve many components of reasoning. The process starts by clearly defining the problem -- "Should I follow my heart or my head?" Having an open mind is shown by the next question: Am I following a loving heart or an evil heart?"

After that comes the gathering of information. What you might find is that books in different fields state the ancient belief that because the body, mind, soul, heart, and universe were all inter-related, no sharp distinctions can be drawn between them. Since the heart was considered the true seat of common sense, intelligence and understanding, it was regarded as indispensable to the body in eternity. For this reason, the heart was the only part of the inner body organs left in the mummy by the Egyptians or presented to the gods by the Mayans of Central America.

Further study infers that in the core of the heart were the seeds of love, feelings, thoughts and will. If feelings, mixed with thoughts, were wrapped in love, then a loving heart resulted; without the wrap of love there would be an evil heart. According to scriptures, Jesus said that "out of the heart come evil thoughts, murder, adultery, sexual immorality, theft, false testimony, slander" (Mt. 15:19). Other scriptures mentioned a loving heart could be upright (Ps 97:11), steadfast (Ps 108:11), and full of integrity (1 Ki. 9:4). In fact, some loving hearts were so magnificent as to be declared Sacred.

In interpreting this information, we see the loving heart operating above the plane of our selfish self-interest and childish impulses -- a reflection of good character. Also, we see it pouring out life, energy and love into affections -- an indication of good personality. This explains why ancient wise-men said that with the loving heart an individual feels, perceives, and makes correct moral choices while also seeking and responding to God.

Understanding all of this allows for the implication that the road to the heart is empathy -- getting in the flow of humanity. In turn, empathy stirs up loving sentiments in the heart. Those sentiments flow out as compassion.

To conclude, in decision-making, if we choose to "follow our heart," then we must ensure that we bind ourselves to the gentle but flaming heart of love. A loving heart pushes the action force of our will to do the right thing.

"I thought getting back on line was an impossible mission."

When my old roommate moved out, I inherited her very large phone bill. But I just couldn't afford to pay it on my tight income, so for a while I had no telephone of my own. Instead, my beeper kept me running all over the place—uptown, downtown, across town—and that's no easy feat in heels. My mission? To find an empty phone booth. And let me tell you it was impossible! I felt like I was gonna self-destruct any second until I got a lead about Universal Lifeline Telephone Service from Pacific Bell. Universal Lifeline is basic telephone service at a reduced rate, which is great for someone like me. I just called 1-800-323-ULTS, and since my old phone bill was under a year old, Pacific Bell hooked me up as soon as I paid just 20% of my old bill. You know, I thought getting back on line would be an impossible mission, but with the help of Universal Lifeline, it's a mission accomplished!

John Bryant: "Black Folks Can't Afford to Be Poor"

By Cheryl Brown
Black Voice News

John Bryant, is a Compton success story.

Bryant has been so successful that he has been recognized by, Presidents, Reagan and Bush for his successes in the field of business.

Bryant is a "Bad Brother", said Harold Webber, President of the Inland Empire African American Chamber of Commerce as he introduced the speaker at the most recent monthly meeting.

He proved to be "BADD." He had a message. The message was his own experience. His message was how he, under Operation Hope, an urban economic empowerment public/private partnership group, was able to bring $10 million in to South Central Los Angeles to rebuild the area when it was destroyed by the L.A. Uprising.

Bryant first admonished the group that "we must show real love" to one another. I made a real change in my life. I can't do anything on my own steam. I'm just a Black boy from Compton, I am the same as you," stated Bryant.

Using that as a back drop he began to tell the story to the capacity crowd of his success.

Bryant started when he was a young boy. The mom and pop store owner in the community refused to carry the kind of candy the kids in the neighborhood wanted to buy. In 1976 he started a candy house. I was successful. At the height of the candy house I was making $300 a week," he said. But by 1986 he was homeless living out of his car. He always had self-esteem. "It was always yes I can," he said. When the economy was good he was making $14,000 a week and he was by his own admission, "all that". Now he was what some people say poor. Bryant takes issues with that and says "being poor is a disabling frame of mind. Black folks can't afford to be poor. We have $399 Billion in spending power. Also I'm tired of hearing about slavery, we must get over it. Emotions have no place in business.... (Also) Black folks need a moratorium on excuses. We need to turn all that emotion into passion. Passion is emotion made intelligent. We must be twice as articulate, twice as well dressed, twice as smart. We are God's children.

John Bryant

Bryant continued to speak comparing the Hispanic buying power with that of African Americans. He said, our spending is $399 billion and theirs is $142 billion. It doesn't take a rocket scientist to understand economics. Magic Johnson didn't love the community, Sony came to him and showed him the figures. He quoted, "soda is top selling in the Black community. Twenty-five percent of every movie ticket sold in America is sold to African Americans. Twenty-five percent of all Cadillacs sold are sold to African Americans. Ninety-five percent of all seafood sold is sold to African Americans. Seventy percent of all Cognac is sold to Blacks. Urban America is the last bastion of capitalization in America. That is why Rebuild L.A. is building 100 grocery stores. In building a grocery store in the White community 11,000 people on average shop at each one. In the Black community that figure is 30,000 per store, paying higher prices. It is economics!

There is a billion dollars in unmet needs in under-served Los Angeles," he said.

"Stop being angry. Stop blaming everyone else. Stop shooting each other. They don't want all that (bad) attitude. Stop being crabs in a barrel. Push the barrel over and (we can) all get out," said Bryant.

Bryant founded Operation Hope with his own $200,000. He spent $5,000 a week not knowing the outcome but taking charge he was bound and determined to stay in his community and make a difference. "I can't blame anyone else if I'm not going to do something," he said. His hard work has paid off. He has now turn that $200,00 into $10 million and growing. He gathered together 75 of the biggest banks and corporations in America "They have enlightened self interest," he said. He has loaned small businesses up to $100,000 and every loan is current. Only one is 60 days late and that will be paid up soon. Operation Hope is working to rebuild a community and lives of people in the community.

The African American Chamber of Commerce meets every fourth Tuesday from 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. at Park Ave. Baptist Church on Martin Luther King Dr. near Kansas in Riverside.

Congressional Black Caucus Convenes Sept. 11-15 in Washington D.C.

By Carla Sanders
NNPA Communications Staff

An impressive village of Black intelligencia, political power, artistic influence and social significance will gather for the Congressional Black Caucus Foundation's (CBCF), 26th Annual Legislative Conference (ALC), Sept. 11-15 at the Convention Center, in Washington, D.C.

The theme of the conference is "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" and all of African America is invited. Forty Black members of Congress will participate under the umbrella of the bi-partisan Congressional Black Caucus (CBC).

The CBC will hold forums and workshops, tackle political issues and convene Congressional brain trusts, providing a national forum to examine strategies and viable solutions to the effects of public policy on African-American life. The conference also provides an arena to commune with the strikingly positive contributions Black culture has on the lives of all Americans.

Congressman John Conyers, Jr., Michigan, the ranking Democratic member of Congress' Judiciary Committee and CBC dean, has made sure Jazz has a place of prominence during this year's activities.

On-Thursday, Sept. 12 at 4:30 p.m., "Jazz: Its Yesterday, Today and its Potential Tomorrow," will examine this indigenous, uniquely Black American "musical synthesis." The forum will be followed at 7 p.m. by a jazz concert featuring leading jazz musicians.

In 1987, Congressman Conyers authored a resolution designating jazz "a rare and valuable national American treasure."

CBC chairman, Congressman Donald Payne, New Jersey, will host two forums. The first will be held Sept. 12 at 12:30 p.m. Entitled "Literacy: the Cornerstone of African-American Advancement," this forum will feature an intellectually, politically and socially diverse panel of African Americans who want solutions to the disproportionate rates of illiteracy among Black youth.

The second forum will be held Friday, Sept. 13 at 9 a.m. Congressman Payne, who serves on the International Relations Committee and its subcommittee on Africa, will also chair a foreign affairs brain trust entitled "Conflict Resolution in Africa."

A comprehensive list of ALC events is available from the CBCF. Remember, many conference events run concomitantly. Schedules are also subject to change.

There will be additional activities.

Questions
& Answers

Dr. Reginald Woods

QUESTION: Dear Pastor Woods; My family and I are titheers. My question to you, however, is regarding our income tax return. If we tithe all year long are we required to tithe on the income tax return, or would it be considered an offering? Please explain.

Do We Tithe on Our Income Tax Return?

Thank you! We are not trying to get out of anything, but just want clarification.

Uniformed, San Bernardino

ANSWER: Malachi 3:10 says, "Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse." Proverbs 3:9 says, "honour the Lord with your substances, and with the first fruits of all your increase." The answer to your question depends on whether you tithe off your net or gross pay. If you tithe off your net, then yes, you should tithe on your income tax return. Many say I am going to tithe off my net pay since taxes are "increase" for Uncle Sam and Social Security taxes are "increase" for grandma and my net pay represents my true "increase". In this case, you would tithe off your income tax return because this money was not tithed earlier. If you tithe off your gross pay you don't need to tithe on your income tax return because your return is merely a refund from your gross income in which you've already tithed on.

It is always appropriate to additionally give an offering which is over and above your tithe.

If you have a question that you would like answered, write: Dr. Reginald L. Woods, Life Changing Ministries, P.O. Box 9778, San Bernardino, CA 92427-9778

Tyson and Seldon square off in heavyweight championship bout

Tyson expected to receive his toughest comeback test against Seldon.

By LELAND STEIN III
BVN Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES - At the pre-fight press conference held at the Park Hyatt in Century City, Mike Tyson and Bruce Seldon came face-to-face in anticipation of what is to come this Saturday. With super promoter Don King as the referee, both fighters attempted to explain to the large media gathering why each would win the fight.

Each fighter stepped up to the podium with confidence that he was not going to lose, but as we all know, someone has to lose.

At the MGM Grand Garden this Saturday and before a national pay-per-view audience, all the aficionados of heavy-weight boxing will at last see Tyson in competition with someone who is very capable of pushing him to the limit.

Seldon (33-3, 29 KO's), who's from Atlanta City, New Jersey, will be making his second title defense of his World Boxing Association (WBA) crown against Tyson. Seldon won the title against Tony Tucker on April 8, 1995.

Since his loss to Tony Tubbs in 1992, Seldon has won nine consecutive fights and is a man that has found confidence and added strength since winning the title. As a result of his improvement, the May 1996 issue of The Ring rated Seldon the best boxer in the heavyweight division.

Tyson (44-1, 38 KO's) on the other hand is always considered the favorite in any fight in which he partakes.

In winning the World Boxing Council (WBC) title from Frank Bruno in March of 1996, Tyson completed the first leg of his title unification journey. In this fight against Seldon, if he wins, he'll have two of the three championship belts.

LIBERATION: (l-r) WBC champion Mike Tyson and co-manger John Horne listen to WBA champion Bruce Seldon explain why he's going to upset Tyson.

Although Tyson has taken out Peter McNeeley, Buster Mathis and Bruno is quick fashion, he nevertheless has shown he still has the awesome hand speed and power that has made him the most feared fighter in the last decade.

After much talk and hype about who's going to knockout who, Tyson, showing much patience, signed gloves, hats, shirts and took pictures with almost everyone that request he do so. Tyson appeared relaxed and at ease with his adoring fans.

This Saturday, he will be up against his toughest test since his comeback started, and Seldon will be there in his face until . . . SOMEONE FINDS LIBERATION.

MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL RACES HEAT UP IN FINAL MONTH

SWEET SWING: Seattle's Ken Griffey Jr. is swinging the Mariners back to a playoff berth.

By LELAND STEIN III
BVN Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES/ANAHEIM - With Major League Baseball still recovering from the strike and the battle to bring the game back into the forefront for American sports, the final stretch run of the 1996 season could go a long way toward achieving that aim.

As September leaves start to fall, so will the 16 teams that still have a chance at baseball glory.

When baseball went to the three division format and included a wild card entrant into the playoff mix, baseball purist scoffed and complained that the game was being diluted. Based on what this season has produced in the amount of teams that have a chance to make the playoffs, I'd have to say the change is "all good."

Why with a little more than twenty games remaining to be played before the October crescendo, three division races are still up for grabs. In the NL West the Dodgers and San Diego Padres are dead even. In the NL Central Houston, St Louis and Chicago are within four games of each other. Finally, in the AL East New York and Baltimore are locking horns and are ready to claw to the finish line.

With the inclusion of NFL's Wild card type entrant, nine teams have a legitimate chance of being in baseball's big dance at season's end.

The Dodger and Padre struggle is going to really heat up in the stretch run. Everyone expected San Diego to fold up its tent and go home by now, but here they are in prime position to upset the Dodgers.

The "Boy's in Blue" meanwhile have hung in there . . . and hung in there. With the exceptional arms the Dodgers have on their team, you have to give them a better than average chance to hold off the hungry Padres.

The two World Series teams from last year, Atlanta and Cleveland, are once again atop their divisions and leagues. Both teams have the talent to repeat the dance they started last year - Atlanta won its first title ever.

The Braves with the addition of another ace, Denny Neagle, have the best pitching staff in baseball, and that will always win you ballgames.

Baseball's brass is hoping - expecting - that the overflow of tight playoff races will bring the fans out in full force and create a frenzied style playoff atmosphere in all the cities that have a chance to compete for the MBL title.

Local Women Meet with Presidential Appointee

Yolanda Townsend Wheat, a native of San Bernardino and newly appointed by President Bill Clinton to the Board of the National Credit Union Administration, hosted a roundtable meeting on Friday, August 23, 1996, at the Public Enterprise Building in San Bernardino with a small group of women from the Inland Empire area. Mrs. Wheat was in California meeting with credit union officials and agency staff. "The President asked me to make time during my stay in California to visit with women about the special needs of women and families and how he can ensure that those needs are being met." The discussion also focused on the special needs of women for financial services and how the credit union industry is addressing those concerns.

The roundtable is a part of a national women's outreach initiative called At the Table, which is the primary project of the White House Office for Women's Initiatives and Outreach. The office was created by President Clinton to conduct outreach to women and women's groups around the nation.

"Single mothers, especially those with limited resources, need access to financial education -- how to set up a budget, how to pay bills on time, how to save -- in order to develop a sense of self-worth," commented Judith Valles, interim President, Oxnard Community College.

Presidential appointee, Yolanda Townsend Wheat (l), newly appointed by President Bill Clinton to the Board of the National Credit Union Administration, met with Yolanda Nava (r), Interim President, Greater Riverside Area Urban League, at a roundtable meeting with local women to discuss how the President can meet the special needs of women and families.

Dr. Duneen DeBrohl spoke eloquently of the need to develop a program to target community services to at risk children, particularly those aged 11-14 through the Neighborhood Services Center. "We have developed a school-based program which has had tremendous impact on the community, reducing crime in the neighborhood by fifty percent," said Dr. DeBruhl. "Additional resources would permit us to expand the program to reach more children in more schools."

Frances Grice, CEO of ADF Consulting, spoke of the need for special educational programs which address all the survival skills a person will need when welfare reform ends payments to recipients after two years. "If welfare reform is to succeed, it is critical that welfare mothers have the training in life skills which build self-confidence and encourage them to be productive members of society."

Judi Battey, district manger, Southern California Gas Company, specifically asked Mrs. Wheat to convey to the President her personal thanks for the Family and Medical Leave Act. "The Family and Medical Leave Act made it possible for me to spend time at home with my second child, an option not open to me after the birth of my daughter," she said.

Bonnie Johnson, owner, Greenwood Bail Bonds, was very direct. "We need to focus on jobs. The key to economic development is job creation. We must have reinvestment in our communities from the savings those in the federal government have touted from tax relief reductions in spending by closing military bases, and welfare reform."

"The federal government should take special efforts to more closely scrutinize how local governments are using community development funds," said Lynn Hirtz, councilwoman, City of Rialto.

As a part of the roundtable Yolanda Wheat will send a report to the White House and a monthly report will be written for the President and others in the Clinton Administration. The purpose of the roundtables is to give women around the nation an opportunity to share their concerns and ideas with the White House.

A list of those invited to share their thoughts and ideas included the following: Betty Dean Anderson, councilwoman, City of San Bernardino; Judi Battey, district manager, Southern California Gas Company; Dr. Duneen DeBruhl, principal, Rio Vista Elementary School; Vivian Nash Dukes, owner, Dukes & Associates; Francis Grice, CEO, ADF Consulting; Lynn Hirtz, councilwoman, City of Rialto; Bonnie Johnson, owner, Greenwood Bail Bonds; Yolanda Nava, interim President, Greater Riverside Area Urban League.

San Bernardino International Airport Wins $4.5M in Federal Grants

Congressman George E. Brown

SAN BERNARDINO - "Today, I am pleased to announce that San Bernardino International Airport Authority has been awarded two federal grants from the Department of Transportation totaling $4.5 million for improvements," said Congressman George E. Brown, Jr. (D-San Bernardino). The grants are part of the Military Airports Program (MAP) which helps former Air Force bases transition to commercial airports.

"This is wonderful news for our region," said Congressman Brown. "San Bernardino International Airport (SBIA) will be the cornerstone of economic development that will be the crown jewel of our region. These grants are a giant step toward that goal."

SBIA has previously received $3.3 million in federal MAP funding ($2.1 million in 1994 and $1.2 million in 1995). This year, SBIA received two grants: one grant for $3.0 million will be used to construct new taxiways; the second grant for $1.5 million will be used to improve the terminal building.

"I have discussed the importance of SBIA's success for our area with various government officials," said Brown. "In June, I met with David Hinson, FAA Administrator, to stress the importance of the project. I am glad that I could help the SBIA Authority in its application for these grants."

The SBIA Authority has cleared all statutory and administrative hurdles and the grants are ready for release, according to the Department of Transportation.

"These grants will mean new jobs, both in the short-term and the long-term," said Brown. "Construction jobs will be created while these projects are underway, and the new airport will generate jobs for years to come."

"I am glad that I could help in the process of getting this money for our area," concluded Brown. "And I will continue to do what I can to make SBIA a success for the people of this region."

Universal Lifeline Telephone Service Gave Me The Power To Be Connected. Now, I Can Stay In Touch For Half As Much!

I'm in college because I want to be competitive in the job market and earn more. It's not easy, but my lack of finances reminds me why I'm studying so hard! Things were so tight that even having a phone seemed out of reach until I found out about GTE's Universal Lifeline Telephone Service (ULTS). There's no deposit. Just a $10 installation fee and $5.62 a month covers my basic telephone service. GTE and ULTS gave me the power to be connected. Now, I don't have to stand in line for the dorm pay phone. I can keep in touch with my mom. I can be there for my friends when they need someone to talk to. And when I applied for a part-time job, I was right there when they called to hire me!

ULTS was designed for folks with low income. So, if your income is $16,500 a year or less, and you're not dependent on anyone else, you could qualify. It's easy to enroll. Just call 1-800-846-8611 and ask about it. Since I got ULTS, my mom says I'm becoming more responsible I just think I'm getting smarter, because I'm staying in touch for half as much!

To Qualify: To get Lifeline service, you must meet five qualifications established by the California Public Utilities Commission.

- 1 You can only have one telephone line in your household. (There is no limit to the number of telephones.)
- 2 Your total household income cannot be more than $16,500 each year or 150 percent of federal guidelines, depending on your household size, as shown below:

Number of persons in Your Family: 1-2	3	4	5	6	7*
Annual Income: $16,500	$19,400	$23,300	$27,200	$31,100	$35,000

*(Each additional person $3,900)
- 3 You are not listed as a dependent on another person's tax return.
- 4 You can only use Lifeline service in your primary residence, not a second home or business.
- 5 You must certify annually that you meet these eligibility requirements.

GTE offers other services that can help you control costs. Ask about GTE's calling options.

It's not easy saving up to buy a home

these days. But with the FHA, it isn't as hard as you'd think. Because with an FHA loan, you could get into a home of your own with a down payment as little as a few months rent. And you don't need a perfect credit record or a high-paying job to qualify. In fact, depending upon the house

you buy, your monthly payments may not be much more than your rent. So ask any real estate agent or lender for details. Or just call

1-800-CALL FHA. We'll show you just how close you are to becoming a homeowner.
